National Adoption Day is a collective effort to raise awareness of the more than 123,000 children waiting to be adopted from foster care in the United States.

A coalition of national partners – the Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption, Congressional Coalition on Adoption Institute, Alliance for Children's Rights and Children's Action Network – founded National Adoption Day.

On November 18, 2000, the coalition and the Freddie Mac Foundation encouraged seven cities to open their courts on or around the Saturday before Thanksgiving to finalize and celebrate adoptions from foster care.

The first National Adoption Day was inspired by the innovative efforts of Michael Nash, a former presiding judge of Los Angeles County’s Juvenile Court. He opened the court on Saturdays, engaged the volunteer efforts of court personnel and finalized adoptions to reduce the backlog of one of the busiest courts in the nation.

Today, policymakers, practitioners and advocates collaborate to plan these annual, one-day events in 400 cities across the United States.

To date, the dreams of more than 70,000 children in foster care have come true as part of National Adoption Day events.
Every year, more than 20,000 children age out of foster care without the safety net of a permanent, loving home. They are at a much higher risk for negative outcomes like homelessness, incarceration and early parenting — all those things can happen to a child who can’t go home and say, ‘I need some help.’ Collaboration among adoption professionals, judges and child welfare advocates is essential during National Adoption Day and year-round to find children still waiting in foster care the forever families they deserve.
